Engineering and Manufacturing Specialists

Engineering and Manufacturing Specialists

ERIK JUHLER Engineering and Manufacturing is a team of specialists, passionate about partnering with senior management professionals and skilled experts with local businesses.

Our consultants work in narrow and specific disciplines; and through networking with both active and predominantly passive candidates, we offer a very attractive and often different proposition to our competitors.

Our specialist services cover a range of disciplines including Operations Management, Fabrication & Machining, Facilities Management & Property, Procurement & Supply Chain, Engineering, Finance and Business Support & Administration.

Disciplines

We offer permanent, interim, contract and temporary recruitment solutions across engineering and manufacturing companies in the North East and Yorkshire.

Our full service model provides organisations with recruitment services which have been tailored to each business and its goals.

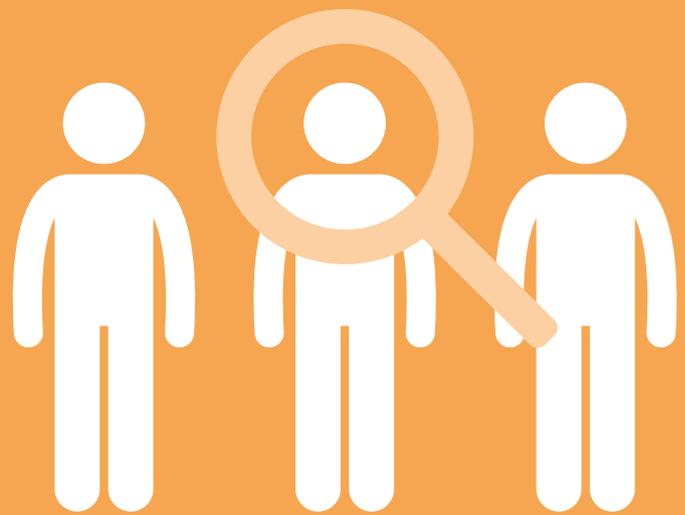

We go above and beyond for all of our clients to ensure we find the right match for every role.

In the UK we operate under two brands; ERIK JUHLER and TEMP-TEAM. ERIK JUHLER focuses on skilled and niche roles within our dedicated disciplines. TEMP-TEAM provides a temporary recruitment solution at shop floor level. Many clients work with both.

Passive Network

We foster ongoing links with passive candidates; these are individuals who are not currently seeking or applying for jobs but who are open to hearing about new and exciting opportunities.

Passive candidates tend not to be interviewing with other employers and will be selective about who they meet with.

With almost 85% of the global workforce being made up of passive candidates and a growing skill shortage in many disciplines, this approach enables us to access strong candidates outside the usual recruitment channels. Crucially, it is then about making the right match for candidate and client.

At ERIK JUHLER, we focus on ensuring a positive candidate experience, further helping nurture our passive candidate network.

Why us?

With more than 35 years experience in international recruitment solutions, industry-leading research tools, contact networks and analysis frameworks, our candidate pool is of the highest calibre, with an extensive database of passive talent, that cannot be reached through mainstream job sites.

Case Study

Fresh Freight Group

Operating from two sites in Washington and Gateshead, Fresh Freight Group (FFG) is a multimodal logistics business based in the North East. Over the years, we have worked with FFG to recruit for a range of sales, finance, management and warehousing roles.

In 2005, ERIK JUHLER recruited John Toft as a Sales Executive. John has since progressed through the business and today, is Sales Director of FFG.

Talking about his experience with ERIK JUHLER, John said:

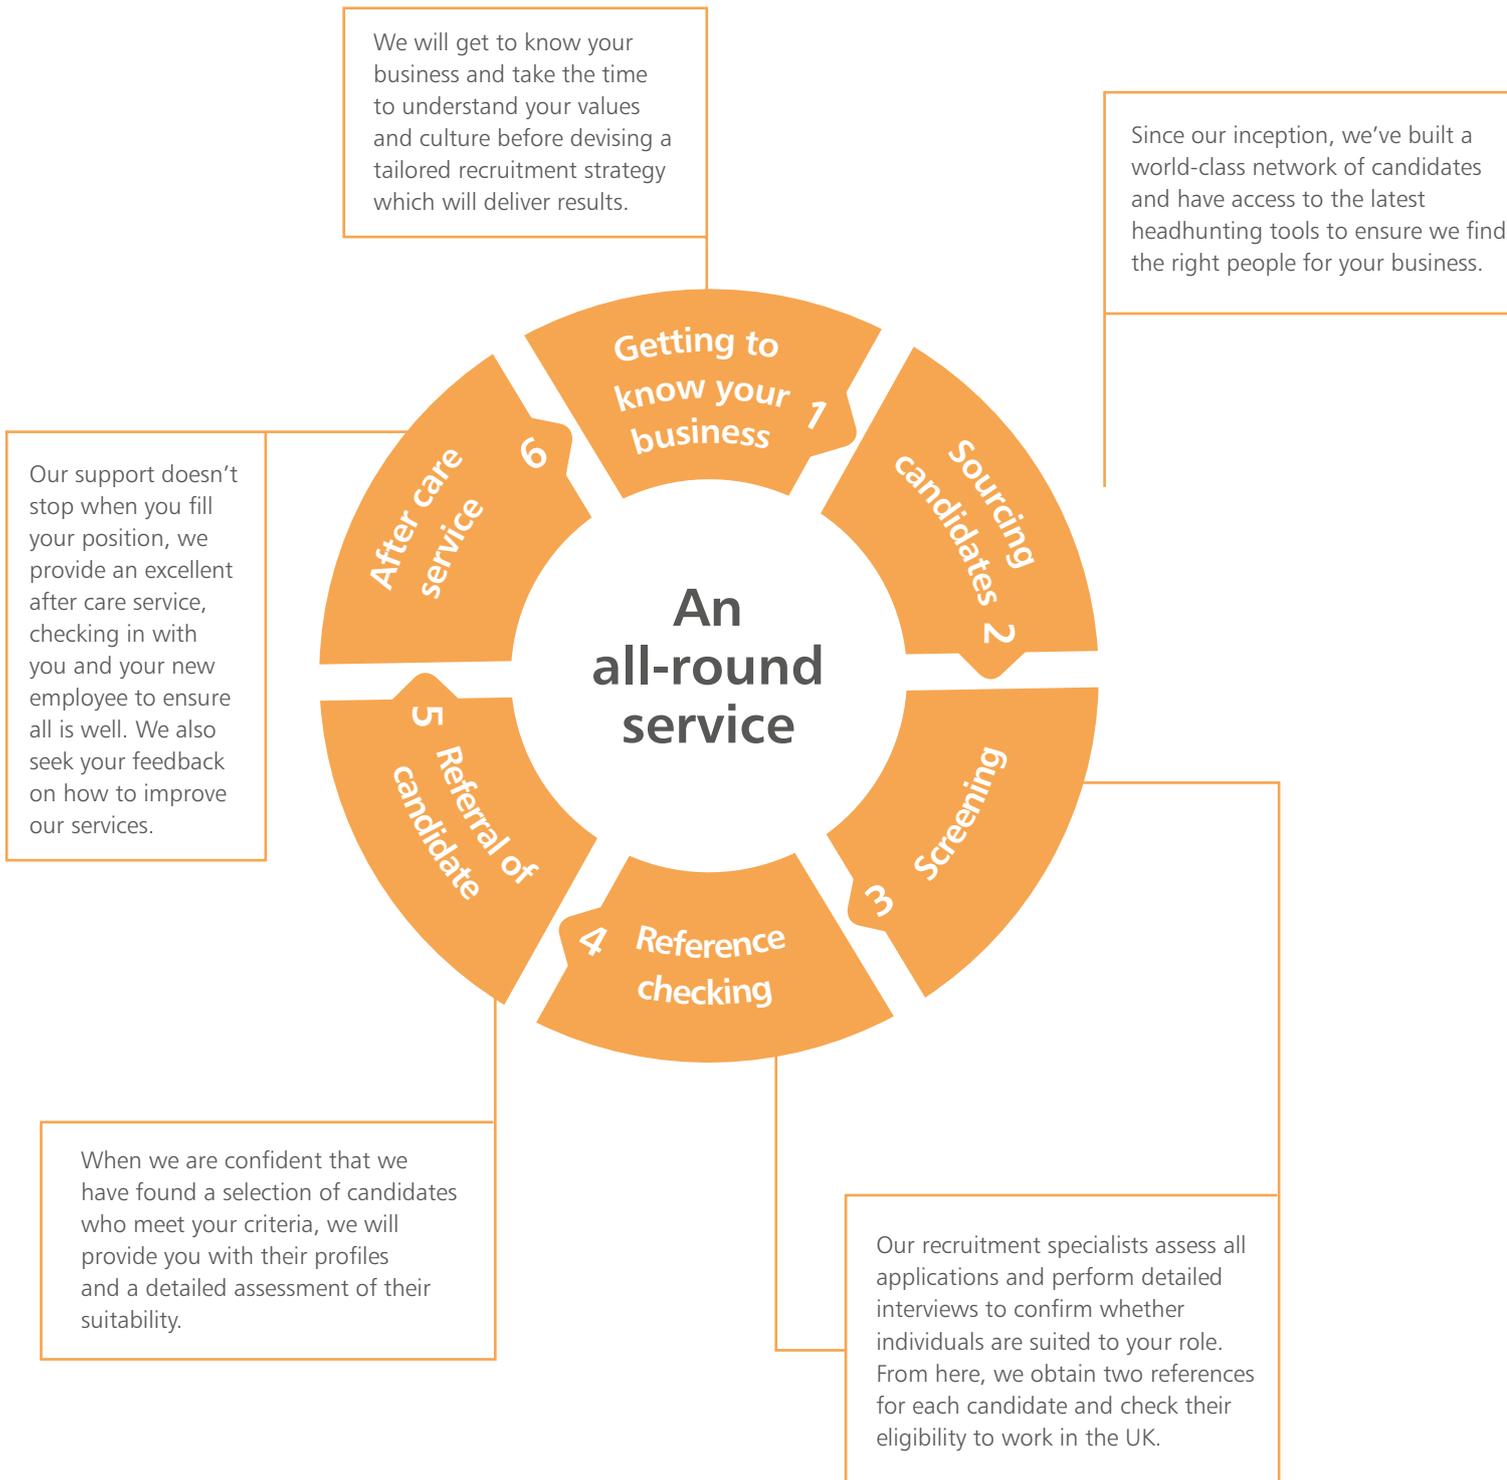

As a relatively small owner-led business, we have grown significantly in recent years and don't have a fixed HR team to manage recruitment for us. After having such a great experience from a candidate perspective, I have no hesitation in going to ERIK JUHLER for all future recruitment requirements. Their way of working is unrivalled in my eyes and you can tell that their reputation is second to none based on the large network of candidates that they are able to reach out to instantly upon taking a new role.

ERIK JUHLER always provides an excellent service and are very professional throughout the process. They take the time to come to site to discuss new roles - leaving with a great understanding of what we're looking for. This in turn has yielded us excellent results every time. The team at ERIK JUHLER save us the time of a traditional recruitment process and literally present us with a shortlist of people to see. In saving us time they also save us money and allow our operational staff to focus on their key role within FFG.

I would absolutely recommend ERIK JUHLER – and we have on more than one occasion.

At ERIK JUHLER, we offer an 'all-round' service to ensure that we provide you with high-quality staffing solutions.
